Legacy 36

Former Rockette Mary Six Rupert is proud to present "Forever Linked," a tap dance extravaganza that celebrates the history of precision dance from The Tiller Girls to The Rockettes. The Legacy Dancers, a line of former Rockettes who still bring the house down, will appear, along with specialty tap dancers, as well as guest speakers Sandra Bryant, descendant of a Tiller Girl, and 92-year old Muriel Bradshaw (seen on tape), a former Roxyette, the precision dance troupe at the Roxy Theatre that later opened Radio City Music Hall in 1932 and later changed their name to the Rockettes. Rupert, a former Rockette for 13 years, created Legacy 36 because of her passion for preserving, choreographing, and celebrating the art of precision dance.
