Class Description: Brynlie's class celebrates a focus on versatility, intention, and truthful artistry. Warming, conditioning, and stretching the body leads to choreography that challenges comfort and inspires discovery.

Teacher Bio: Since moving to New York City, Brynlie has spent the last four dance seasons setting choreography on soloists and groups that perform across the country. Her work has been seen on stages such as the Youth American Grand Prix and NYCDA'S National Outstanding Dancer Experience. With Elisa Monte Dance, Brynlie has taught for the Police Athletic League for two years. Since teaching for the first time six years ago, Brynlie strives to bring each dancer back to why they first started dancing, so they can bring that passion into every class, audition, stage, and room they encounter.
