Thur June 11 at 7pm

In honor of Pride Month, Jody Sperling presents an engaging and richly-illustrated talk on her muse, the visionary and Queer artist Loie Fuller (1862-1928). Fuller was one of the most celebrated performers of her era, inventing a radically new art form that merged performance and technology in unprecedented ways. Her legacy, while vast, has been under-acknowledged and deserves further examination in light of today's highly-mediated culture.

Roll out of bed this Saturday, grab your pillowcases and try out some Loie Fuller moves. Fuller employed enormous silk costumes that extended the body into space. Fuller expert Jody Sperling offers an accessible way to experience this sense of expansion.
