September 26 - October 6, 2012

To Begin The World Over Again

Company: Delirious Dance Company
Venue: Irondale Center
Location: Brooklyn, NY

▶ Share | Print | Download

To Begin The World Over Again explores the writings of Thomas Paine and his spirited advocacy for freedom and democracy. Fusing the visions of composer Joseph C. Phillips Jr. and choreographer Edisa Weeks and their respective companies the music ensemble Numinous and DELIRIOUS Dances, To Begin The World Over Again eloquently explores: How are freedom and democracy packaged and promoted in America? What does it mean to be free in American? As America becomes more consumer driven, polarized and disenchanted, is America living up to its promise? Performed with the audience sitting in the round, To Begin The World Over Again is an evening length multi-disciplinary work that features six dancers and thirteen musicians and singers. The work unfolds through four sections inspired by Paineas words: Dreams Of Wonders Undreamt, These Are The Times That Try Menas Soul, Mischief Is Easier Begun Than Ended, and We Have It In Our Power.

Delirious Dance Company
85 south oxford street
Brooklyn, NY, 11217
http://irondale.org/friends3.html

Schedule
September 26, 2012: 8:00pm
September 27, 2012: 8:00pm
September 28, 2012: 8:00pm
September 29, 2012: 8:00pm
October 3, 2012: 8:00pm
more

< back

previous listing • next listing