In this class, students will begin to understand the basic elements of storytelling. They will tap into dance traditions, like Native American Fan dancing, to aid in their understanding of symbolism in dance. The students play fun dance and theater-based games and explore moving like animals, robots, and objects found in nature. There will be "dress-up" and character-building, leading up to an original final performance.

Trial classes are $30 each, or $50 for both classes*.
