In their newest work, B.S. Movement continues their fascination with the cyclical nature of relationships and living. The work offers the observer the freedom to receive, relate or simply notice what is happening; just as one does in everyday living. "While we continue along our individual courses of existence, it is commonplace to become ignorant of what is all around. Whether it is conscious or unconscious we inevitably coincide. This affects what is, and what is to come."

raja feather kelly | the feath3r theory premieres the 5th work in JAMES MEETS ANNE | A TRILOGY IN 5 PARTS. The title personas of ANNE and JAMES are loosely drawn portraits of poet Anne Sexton and actor James Dean. The cycle distills emotion and realizes, through movement, a poetic sensibility related to who we deal with love, tragedy, and hope. The cycle contains 5 works in 3 chapters developed and presented in 2013 and 2014 at The University Of Florida, Joe's Pub, Gowanus Arts Project, Dixon Place Dance, WaxWorks, and Roulette Brooklyn.
