In a critical time for social justice, we need our spirits lifted more than ever. And for people of color living in this country, we need to see ourselves in every seat possible. "It's BIGGER Than Me" explores the complexities of our present moment and will present virtually October 15th through the 25th. This self produced collaborative project involves all artists of color - actors, dancers, and vocalists. We hope to create conversations, broaden perspectives, and open doors for collaborative engagement. RSVP to our FREE presentation here!
