PANELS

Data on NYC Dance

This panel interrogates Dance/NYC's evolving body of research, including the State of NYC Dance, published in the fall 2011, based on New York State Cultural Data Project data on nonprofit dance. The panel will spotlight preliminary findings on fiscally sponsored artists, an employment report on NYC dance workers, 21-35, led by Dance/NYC Junior Committee, and new national findings from Dance/USA. What are the data on NYC dance and how are they and modes of collection and analysis changing? What can they tell us about activity, audiences, finances and resources? How can we use these data to advocate funding and policy development and improve industry management?

Panelists:

Julia Kelly, Dancer and Former Chair, Dance/NYC Junior Committee

Kerry McCarthy, Program Officer for Education, Arts & Human Justice, The New York Community Trust (Moderator)
Ian David Moss, Research Director, Fractured Atlas
Victoria Smith, Manager of Research, Dance/USA

Meet the Press

Moderated by the National Endowment for the Arts' Jamie Bennett, this panel brings together the Star-Ledger's Robert Johnson, Dance Magazine's Wendy Perron, The New York Times' Brian Siebert, and choreographer, educator and blogger Gus Solomons, Jr. to discuss the current state of dance and the current state of dance coverage as journalism (and specifically arts journalism) experiences seismic shifts. The panel will explore questions, including who gets to be a critic and who gets to be covered in our rapidly evolving media and technological landscape? Are we experiencing an abundance or a dearth of opportunities for NYC dance artists to be seen? What is the role of the critic in creating community?

Panelists:

Jamie Bennett, Chief of Staff and Director of Public Affairs, National Endowment for the Arts (Moderator)
Robert Johnson, Dance Critic and Former Board Member, Dance Critics Association, The Star-Ledger
Wendy Perron, Editor-in-Chief, Dance Magazine
Brian Seibert, Dance Critic, The New York Times
Gus Solomons, Jr., Dancer, Choreographer, Dance Writer and Arts Professor at NYU/Tisch School of the Arts

Audiences

Arts audiences are changing. In this panel, we'll situate a discussion of audiences for NYC dance in the larger context of cultural consumption. Panelists will bring creative, analytical and service perspectives, and offer some new tools to better understand and reach audiences. Are there best practices for building NYC audiences in 2012? What's happening and what's possible? How can we build a community of practice? How can we engage local, on tour and virtual audiences, improving the numbers and levels of engagement?

Panelists:

Anne Coates, Vice President, Arts and Cultural Development, Municipal Arts Society of New York (Moderator)
Arthur Cohen, Chief Executive Officer, La Placa Cohen
Terence McFarland, Executive Director, LA Stage Alliance
Elizabeth Streb, Chairman of STREB, Inc. and Artistic Director for STREB Lab for Action Mechanics, Action Architect

Watch the Audience Engagement session here

Entrepreneurship

Dance/NYC research brings to light a strong start up culture in NYC dance. As demonstrated by revenue diversity, barter economies, and smaller groups' disproportionately high level of new creation—premiers and commissions—entrepreneurship is alive. This panel examines new case stories and entrepreneurial approaches to dance-making and management that can help shape our future. What are our opportunities to innovate? What makes a good investment in dance? What models and resources can be borrowed from other sectors and industries to bolster NYC dance? How can we, individually and collectively, adapt and be the change we want to see in NYC dance?

Panelists:

Vin Cipolla, President, Municipal Art Society of New York
Emma Dunch, President, Dunch Arts, LLC (Moderator)
Carla Peterson, Artistic Director, New York Live Arts
Edwin Torres, Associate Director for New York City Opportunities Fund, Rockefeller Foundation

BREAKOUT SESSIONS

Big Picture Advocacy: Taxes, Technology, Travel and, yes, Arts

Funding for arts and arts in education programs may be the flagship issue for advocates. However, potential changes to charitable giving incentives, nonprofit eligibility, and online policies may have a bigger impact on the nonprofit and creative communities. Get an update on policies that impact the arts and learn how you can become an effective voice for supporting dance on a variety of issues.

Speaker:

Brandon Gryde, Director of Government Affairs, Dance/USA and OPERA America

The Profitable Artist

A how-to guide for all artists in all disciplines to acquire the skills they need to be profitable. While all art is unique, the challenges artists face are shared regardless of background, experience, and artistic medium. With decades of experience training and helping artists, the staff of the NYFA have compiled a best practices approach to planning and organizing an art career. In this book, NYFA has identified common problems, examined specialized areas of business, finance, marketing, and law, and distilled these topics in such a way that readers can digest them and apply them to their own experience and practice.

Speaker:

Mark Rossier, Deputy Director, New York Foundation for the Arts

Good Counsel with Lesley Rosenthal

Lesley Rosenthal, General Counsel of Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts and author of the bestselling new book Good Counsel: Meeting

the Legal Needs of Nonprofits, will provide a plain-English overview of legal issues commonly faced by nonprofit arts organizations. With actionable work plans, glossaries and case studies, the talk will empower audience members to: energize the boardroom with role clarity and trustee engagement; boost fundraising activities; negotiate contracts that serve the organization's best interests; support a committed workforce with sound employment policies; strengthen the organization's name and protect its good works and more.

Speaker:

Lesley Rosenthal, Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary, Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts

DANCEGROUND

The DanceGround is a creative space for conversation, thought processing, networking and rejuvenation. Virtually view panels in real time and voice your opinion in alternative facilitated discussions.

The People's Press Room

The People's Press Room will convene in the DanceGround during the Meet the Press Panel. This open, safe space will be facilitated by Huffington Post blogger Jennifer Edwards. We will watch the panel, via closed circuit, and collect reactions, thoughts, and feedback on a paper graffiti wall. Discussion will commence directly after the conclusion of the panel and continue through lunch. All will be captured and shared. This is an opportunity to build community around the topic of how dance is represented in the press and to make your voice heard.

Speaker:

Jennifer Edwards, Blogger, Huffington Post and Change Management Consultant, Edwards & Skybetter | Change Agency
