In YAG, Batsheva Dance Company's first production adapted especially for the screen, Ohad Naharin uses cinematic language to communicate his work both as director and choreographer. The disappearance of the stage, now replaced by the cinematic frame, creates a direct encounter with the dancers. In collaboration with video artist Roei Shalti, the cast of six dancers convey a love of dancing, longing, and transformation of emotions into pure movement in this intimate, yet impactful hybrid work.

Streaming On-Demand Thursday, May 27 at 8pm ET through Wednesday, June 2 at 11:59pm ET
