Dancing at Night w/ Pepper Fajans

Wednesdays, 8:15 – 9:45pm // 5-Oct thru 7-Dec
$10

In a structured groove we use the powers of after hours to animate our mind's eye. A technical class with open forms to facilitate conversation between rhythm and the character of our body. Open level, this work can be scaled for anyone. Wear what makes you feel good and expect to sweat.

Pepper Fajans is the Founding Director of Brooklyn Studios for Dance (BkSD) and the Brooklyn Touring Outfit. Born in 1985, he was the personal assistant to Merce Cunningham and continued to tour with the Cunningham Company as the production carpenter and assistant to David Vaughan through the final world tour. As director of BkSD he partnered with Cadman Congregational Church in 2015 to renovate their 1920's era gymnasium into a burgeoning dance studio offering classes, performances, and community events. Fajans has performed as a dancer and puppeteer in Hagozomo at Brooklyn Academy of Music, The Windup Bird Chronicle at the Ohio Theater, and other productions at La Mama, Danspace, and the 92nd street Y. His solo work has appeared at St. Ann's Warehouse and Judson Church. He has been featured in the New York Times, The Montreal Gazette, and Culturebot. Fajans is a graduate of Sarah Lawrence College, a resident of Clinton Hill, Brooklyn, and a 10-year member of the Seattle's Royal Famille Ducaniveaux.
